HISTORY OF JANE HUNTINGTON EASTHAM
Pioneer of 1865

Jane Eastham, daughter of Robert Huntington and Janet Holden was born March 22, 1817 at Chadesley Lancashire, England. Of her early girlhood we know very little, but her parents were well to do as they owned their own home and a row of cottages that they rented as well as other property. She married John Eastham, who was an engineer on the railroad, he was also a good provider. They had eleven children, Emma Jane, Evalina, Louisa, Edith, Cathron, Marenthia, Althera, Merlin, Lenora, Jane, John Henry, and Betsy Ellen. Six of the girls grew to womanhood, They owned their own furniture store in England and Jane Eastham and the girls took care of the store while the father was away. (A)

Jane joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints 1st March 1839. She with her husband and four girls Chathron, 16; Marentha, 14; Merlin, 13; and Lenora, 12, emigrated from Leeds England sailing 29th April 1865 from Liverpool on the ship Belle Wood under the direction of William H. Sherman. The company landed in New York 1 June 1865 being six weeks on the ocean. They left New York in a few days and June 15th 1865 left Wyoming, Nebraska in Captain Henson Walkers Company. John Eastham was made captain of the 1st company, Robert Pixton was Chaplin and John Hammer, was captain of the guard. The English Company arrived in Salt Lake August 12, 1865.

She was a very industrious woman, an immaculate housekeeper, and an excellent cook. It is said that you could eat off of her floors, they had to be scrubbed with sand until the boards were white. She did not have straw under her rag rugs, but great long strips that were taken up so that the floor could be scrubbed. Her pots and pans shown until you could see your face in them. The great copper boiler was scrubbed weekly after wash day with vinegar and salt and hung in its place on the back porch. Her dish towels were white as snow even though they had to be washed on the board. She loved nice things and kept them so. She used to have what was called a "cosey" it was a pretty quilted silk cover for the tea pot with a bright colored lining that she used over the tea pot to keep it warm. She was a most excellent cook and made all kinds of fancy pastries, the famous lemon tarts are a hand me down recipe of Grandmother Eastham. She and Ann Clark were very dear friends and they would exchange any new ideas of cooking which they both enjoyed. The conference visitors would always come to her place to eat. Grandfather would say "for your good cooking". She entertained many of the General Authorities. Joseph F. Smith always came to her place, he had lived for a time at their home when he was in England on a Mission. They were very dear friends.

She was a very patient woman and when my grandfather, who was not quite so patient, would come and tell her something he had seen or heard she would say,

Sketch of Life of Merlin Eastham Kearl

I was born in the village of Masbro near Rotherham six miles from Sheffield Yorkshire England on the 6th of November 1852. My fathers name being John Eastham son of Rodger Eastham and wife Margret Ogden. My mothers name was Jane Huntington Eastham daughter of John Huntington and wife Jeanette Holden.

When I was seven years old my father moved his family to the city of Leeds in Yorkshire. My father and mother joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints years before I was born.

We lived in Leeds and took care of the Elders who came as missionaries into that part of the country. President Joseph F. Smith being among them. In 1865 I was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints by Elder Thomas B. Marsh being then 12 years old. On the 29th of April 1865 we emigrated to America sailing in the old sailing vessel Belle Wood. We had a remarkably good voyage across the ocean arriving at Castle Gardens, New York the last day of May having been just a month on the sea.

We had a good time on the ship with no sickness to speak of. One old Lady died and a little baby. They were buried in the sea which seemed a very sad thing to me tho I was only a little girl.

After being in New York a day or two we started on our journey through the states by rail and steamer and after traveling on the Missouri river a while we were put off the steamer at a little place called Wyoming seven miles from what is now Nebraska City but at that time there were only a very few houses there.

At Wyoming there was a hotel, store, and storm cave all our baggage was just dumped on the bank of the river. We had to get it away from there the best way we could.

We camped there nine weeks waiting for our oxen and wagons. There were some very bad thunder storms. During the storms we had to all crowd into the cave. Then when the storms would be over we would get out into the sunshine again and take up our out door life. There was a Danish company of saints camped about a mile from us and they had no shelter whatever but it was wonderful how happy they were every night we could hear them singing the old hymns.

When the brethren came from Omaha with the wagons and cattle we commenced to get ready to start on our journey across the plains for Utah and what lots of fun and mishaps we had getting the wild cattle yoked up and hitched to the wagons. Some of the oxen would run and break a wagon tongue or do some other damage but at last we were ready to start.

It rained the day we started out and the roads were almost impassable but we were glad we were on the move as every day we travelled if it was only a few miles brought us a little nearer home we thought. I have often thought what courage our fathers and mothers had to attempt such a journey especially never having seen such teams and wagons and knowing nothing about handling them. However, in a day or two it cleared up and our oxen quieted down a bit. We had no sickness to speak of tho I had mountain fever but not very bad. I remember there was a young boy in our company who had dropsy and someone had told him smoking was a cure and I can remember how he cried when he commenced to use the tobacco I oftended wondered if he got better or not and in regard to sickness I will state that mother was a very sickly woman for years before we left England and we were afraid she wouldn't be able to stand the journey but she had faith to start on the long journey in fact if mother hadn't been the prime mover in the undertaking we would have never come to Utah however mother wasn't sick and hour on shipboard and had better health all the way than she had had in years.

In journeying across the plains we passed quite close to fort Kearney and three of the soldiers traveled with us for a day or two then had to walk back. They were very well behaved boys but were homesick and lonesome.

We had a pretty good time crossing the plains. I think our Captains name was Millen Atwood his surname was Atwood. I know we had no one die in our train and never saw an indian at all but when we arrived at fort Larimie we had word not to camp there as the Indians had raided the Danish train the night before and carried off the wife of one of that company and shot seven arrows into her husband. They never got the woman back. If I remember right the fort was about three miles from the road. There were soldiers at the fort but didn't get to the train in time to do any good. We travelled all that night and we children were quite frightened but we were never molested by anything.

We arrived in Salt Lake City November 7th 1865 having been nearly seven months on the journey. I passed my 13th birthday the day (Nov. 6) before we arrived in Salt Lake City. We went to live in Grantsville where I had two sisters (living there Mrs. Emma Jane Eastham Ratcliffe and Mrs Louisa Eastham Millward) who had immigrated from England to Utah three years previously. We used to have good times in those days although the most of the people were poor not many having cook stoves even and our meetings and dance halls were lighted by tallow candles made by ourselves. In the early fall there would be a dance given and everybody bid for their ticket with candles and the people brought enough to last the winter and we used to dance all night with an intermission for

 On July 12th 1869 I was married to James Kearl of Grantsville in the Endowment house in Salt Lake City and in August of the same year left Grantsville for Bear Lake my husband having been called there to help settle up that part of the country. We arrived in Round Valley August 29th 1869. We had the usual experiences common to all settlers in a new country. We suffered from cold and hunger quite often as the frost and grasshoppers took the most of our crops. However, we stayed with it and President Taylor on one of his visits blessed the land and said the climate should change for the better and so it has. For years now we have raised good grain and considerable fruit.

Teacher old
 So now I am 61 years old. Mother of ten children. 6 boys and four girls, one boy and three girls have died and two of my boys are living in Cardston Canada and the rest here. In October 1912 my youngest son, Chase, went on a mission to the northern states returning in April 1915. I held an office in every auxillary organization in the church, was chosen one of the first teachers in religion class at its organization in our ward (Laketown RichCo.) receiving my license from President Woodruff also was President of Y.L.M.A. also counselor and teacher in Primary, teacher and 2nd counselor in Relief Society and teacher in Sunday School. In Oct. 1916 I was made president of the Laketown Primary Association and in 19__ was put in as 2nd counselor in Relief Society to Sister Eliza Rachel Johnson, President. July 11th 1907 set apart by Bishop G.H. Robinson was set apart as 2nd counselor to Mrs Bessie Barker Weston, President August 10, 1911 was chosen as 1st counselor to Mrs Millenda Weston Lamborn, President May 1918.

My father was a locomotive engineer. He was sent by the English Government to run on the first railroad in the East Indies.

Laketown Nov 30th 1925

I thought I would tell of my trip to Cardston Canada to see my two boys John and George and their families. John's family consists of wife and 12 children 9 boys and 3 girls the boys names are Clifford, Weston, Knowlton, Delmar, Jack, Keith, and Grant, the other two being dead. Girls names are Thelma, Bella, and Pheobe. George's family consists of wife and 9* children 5 boys 4 girls Laurence, Russell, Eldon, Harold, girls names, Arminto, Lucille, Adaline, Merlin, and Rose Norreen. All of them are bright and good looking children. I had a splendid time though too late in the year to see the country at its best. Thousands of acres of wheat to be threshed. It was cut in August but the weather was too wet to get it dry enough to thresh the worst fall for storms they had ever had since my boys have been there. The people there seem to be trying to live their religion there as well or better than we do here. They have splendid schools and entertainments all as up to date as we have here. There are two wards in Cardston Temple Tabernacle 2 meetinghouses besides grade school and high school and amusement halls. I spent my 73rd birthday 6th of November with my boys and their families. I had a good time with relatives and friends and to know my boys John George and Chase were considered worthy and did work in the temple while I was there that pleased me best of all.

*Two more children were born to George and RoseMarie. Their names are Edward Lamont Kearl and June Ruth Kearl.

Further notes by Adaline Kearnl

Sixty-two years have elapsed since grandmother Merlin Kearnl wrote about her visit to Canada and how important it was to her. I'm certain that it was equally important to my father George, my mother Rose Marie and we children of the two families. For years we children had prayed that some time she would visit us. So when she did come with uncle Chase it was really special. She was small and lively with a quick wit and a sparkle that belied her years. We all loved her from the start. Even the towns people found her captivating and charming. She was a bit hunched with age and had small features and spoke in cultured tones. I remember vividly seeing her mend tiny white wool baby stockings for my mothers baby Rose Norreen. She darned them so neatly. On her 73rd birthday we celebrated it with a program at home. Uncle Chase sang beautifully (That Little Mother of Mine). There seemed to be such a close bond between mother and son.

"That Little Mother of Mine" will now be sung and we will dedicate it to the memory of Uncle Chase and Grandmother Merlin Eastham Kearnl.
